Why My Potential?

In-school workshops “My location-determination”, “My decision-making competence strengthens- in "Ken I" and "Strengthening My Decision-Making Skills II," you continue reflecting on your talents, inclinations, personality style, and desires. Extracurricular influences, such as the job market and university studies, are also considered. You focus on your personal goals and recognize what constitutes a good decision.

What is being done?

You will work in groups, in pairs or alone on your further career choice process.
During the three workshops, you will pursue your individual path of career orientation. You will research, exchange ideas, reflect on your work, and utilize counseling and support services. Among other things, you will explore the five dimensions of your career choice competence:

- Career choice confidence
- Flexibility
- Self-efficacy
- Career choice commitment and professional self-concept.

When will what happen?

The workshops each last four hours. Your school will set the exact times for the implementation schedule is fixed. The workshop "My Self-Assessment" is followed by the second workshop "Strengthening My Decision-Making Skills I," ideally before the practical elements (e.g., an internship at a company or university). The third workshop, "Strengthening My Decision-Making Skills II," follows the practical elements.

Who is involved?

The workshops are held at the school and led by professionals in career guidance.
(e.g. career guidance, university counseling, foundations) supported.
